

Why LiquidPlanner

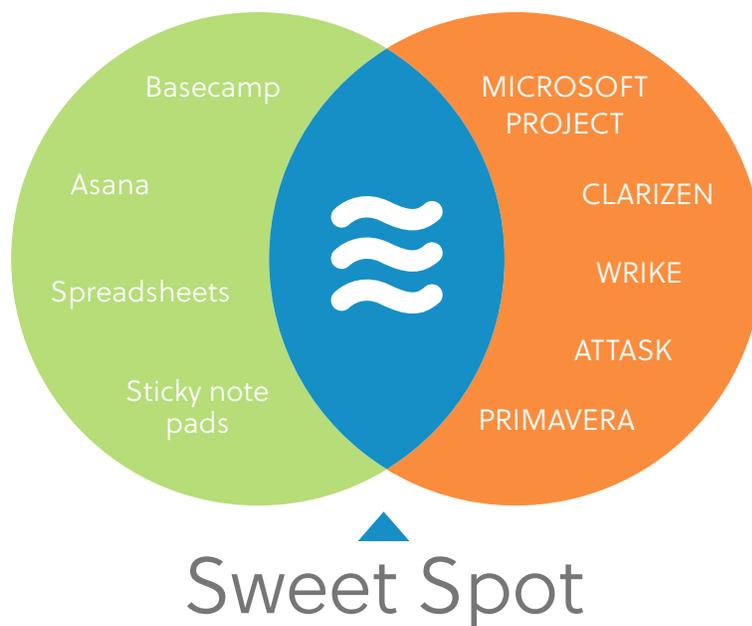

Where LiquidPlanner fits in with the competition

There's a swarm of project management tools out there to choose from – all offering a wide spectrum of capabilities. Lightweight tools don't provide the visibility and analytics that high-performing teams need to make good decisions. Old-school project management is unresponsive and lacks collaborative capabilities.

On one side of the spectrum, there are basic tools for managing tasks and collaboration, but they don't offer any significant project scheduling, resource management or analytics features.

On the other side, you have traditional Microsoft Project-style planning tools. They're complex and rigid, and it's difficult to adapt them to change, shifting deadlines and uncertainty.

And right in the sweet-spot center of it all, you have LiquidPlanner. It's a nimble, intelligent, new-world software that gives access and visibility to all team members, helps you prioritize and estimate work and fosters collaboration across projects.

“LiquidPlanner is an amazing piece of work. I haven't been this impressed with a piece of software for years — it's rare to find such creatively and elegantly thought through design and coding.”

LiquidPlanner is the right fit for your team if:

- ✓ You don't have a good way to manage your priorities – as a team or as an individual.
- ✓ You're tired of overbooked resources and not knowing when projects will be done.
- ✓ You spend way too much time updating your plan and not enough time doing real work (or, you don't have a plan at all!).
- ✓ You don't have a central location online where you can manage your entire portfolio and collaborate with your team.
- ✓ You're frustrated by not knowing the status of your projects and want quick access to a real-time view.
